Halal

Muslims do only eat Halal food, however non-Muslims can eat Halal food.

A Halal certificate is a guarantee that the products comply with the Islamic dietary requirements or Islamic lifestyle.

Halal certification significantly enhances the marketability of your products.

If you are exporting or planning to export to Muslim-majority countries then the Halal certificate will allow you to meet one of the important requirements by the importing countries.

Today, the two largest markets for Halal products are Southeast Asia and the Middle East. These areas equal more than 400 million Muslim consumers
